

New Banners on Williamson Street

Sept. 2009 - The 700 and 800 blocks of Williamson Street sport new banners thanks to several businesses and organizations. They pooled resources to cover the cost of banners that promote the neighborhood's festivals.

Contributors not present for the photo include Eldorado Grill, The MacXprts, Madison Teachers Inc. and Struck and Irwin Fence Inc.

The banners were placed on the city light poles by a Madison Gas and Electric crew.
